

Commanding attention wherever they appear, horses of Friesian heritage have impacted the American equine world in a manner that will not soon be forgotten.

Friesian Heritage Horses are the product of Friesians interbred with various other types of horses. This crossbreeding frequently results in intelligent individuals that are quite deserving of their stellar reputation.

Proving their capabilities in all types of events, they are distinctive horses, commonly displaying athletic ability, balance and an elegant appearance. They can offer the best of both worlds when some of the Friesian's distinct characteristics, agreeable disposition and presence are retained and blended with desirable traits from other breeds.

Known for their versatility, they can be suitable for anything from the show ring to the family camping trip. They have achieved popularity and success in many performance disciplines, especially dressage, eventing, driving and combined driving.
